

Young-Soo Kim
President
Korea Institute for Curriculum and Evaluation (KICE)

Dr. Young-Soo Kim is the president of the Korea Institute for Curriculum & Evaluation (KICE) in the Republic of Korea. He obtained a Ph.D in Sociology from Stanford University. For the past 14 years he served at Sogang University as a professor and as vice president at the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. He has been involved in the 2018 College Entrance Exam Master Plan Task Force and College Scholastic Ability Test Reform Committee and currently publishes articles in the Daily UNN (University News Network) as an editorial writer.

New Directions in English Language Assessment of Korea: Educational Policies and Practices